GC man slain; two are held in investigation

Murder warrants are being sought today against two Granite City men in their mid-20s who were found near the scene of a fatal shooting at 10:55 p.m. Friday at West Pontoon Road and Illinois Route Three.

Wounded fatally in the side of the head by a single pistol bullet was Rusty Bradley, 28, of 3125 Davis Ave., a welder at Combustion Engineers, St. Louis.

An Air Force veteran, Mr. Bradley was the father of three children. Authorities believe his pickup truck was being chased by an auto as he drove west on West Pontoon near Route Three. He apparently was wounded while the vehicles were in motion. The truck continued across Missouri Avenue near the C. D. Peters Construction Co. building and traveled about 200 feet before striking parked construction equipment on the company's parking area. The truck was damaged in colliding with an earth mover, and it was initially assumed that a traffic mishap rather than a homicide had occurred.

When police arrived they noted the truck and also saw a Camaro auto in a ditch. The car had become stuck in a ditch.

The driver and passenger were said to be convinced erroneously that the Bradley truck had been involved in a collision or near-collision with their car earlier Friday.

Mr. Bradley was lying on the seat of the truck and appeared to be dead. He was pronounced dead at 11:20 p.m. Friday by Deputy Coroner William Sternberg.

The two believed to have been in the auto were taken into custody for questioning by police, either as material witnesses or suspects. They were booked for investigation, and remained in detention during the weekend.

Police found Mr. Bradley's wallet, still containing money and other contents, along the edge of a roadway. In a nearby ditch, officers located a pistol thought to have been used in the fatal shooting.

A. O. Smith to end long GC operation

The board of directors of A.O. Smith Corporation voted Thursday to permanently close the Granite City auto frame manufacturing plant. The decision at Milwaukee was based on a recommendation from the management of the company's Automotive Division.

L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer, said the board acted to close the plant for three primary reasons:

1. The production contracts at the plant expire in two years, due to a phase-out of conventional frames by General Motors.
2. The company has been unable to obtain sufficient new business to reasonably operate such a large plant (500,000 square feet).

3. The current low volume of business at the Granite City plant makes the orderly awarding of production to other A.O. Smith plants or to competitors a simpler task.

For the past 25 years, the Granite City plant has specialized in the manufacture of full-length, separate frames for passenger cars.

The General Motors vehicles now using frames produced at the local plant are being redesigned beginning with the 1983 models, and separate frames will no longer be used in their construction.

L. B. Smith estimated that the closing of the Granite City plant will have an adverse after-tax impact of about $7.8 million, which will be recognized in the third quarter financial report.

Currently, the plant employs 650 production workers, who have been on strike since April 8, and 200 salaried personnel. Another 750 production workers have been laid off in the past year due to the low volume of demand for frames.

A.O. Smith Corp., with its subsidiaries and affiliates, is a diversified manufacturer. Its product lines include electric motors, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, auto and truck structural components, water heating equipment, fiber glass reinforced plastic pipe, computer services and agricultural financing.

Tax bills increase in some area townships

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record
Compared to a year ago, the biggest tax breaks are going to property owners residing in the eastern portion of the Quad-City area.

Bills to be mailed out this summer on homes assessed locally at $10,000 a year and a half ago will rise from $786 to $908 in Venice, from $717 to $810 in Madison and from $759 to $770 in Granite City. But similarly determined property tax bills will fall from $877 to $744 in Ponton Beach, from $866 to $709 in areas of Nameoki Township outside the Long Lake fire district, and from $810 to $655 in Chouteau Township.

The comparison takes into account combined tax rates of $6.65 in Granite City, down from $6.84 a year ago; $7.18 on each $100 of valuation in Madison, up from $6.61; $8.04 in Venice, up from $7.24; $6.45 in Ponton Beach, down from $7.58; $6.12 in parts of Nameoki

Township, down from $7.85; and $6.30 in Chouteau Township, down from $7.93.

The tax bill comparison also notes the effect of township tax multipliers that were set by the Madison County Board of Review in each of the past two years in order to obtain 1.0 countywide multipliers (no multipliers). The state required the board to bring the 24-township countywide assessment total to one-third of the current "full, fair cash value" of taxable property.

A Granite City home thought to be worth $30,000 and assessed locally at $10,000 was increased by township tax multipliers to $11,082 a year ago (1.1082 multiplier) and to $11,581 this summer (1.1581 township multiplier).

A Venice Township (Venice-Madison area) home initially assessed at $10,000 was increased on the valuation rolls to $10,857 a year ago and $11,294 this year. A Nameoki Township residence assessed at $10,000 was boosted from $11,029 and then $11,569.

But a Chouteau Township home that was raised to $10,500 a year ago (1.0500 multiplier) a year ago was decreased to $8,813 this year (.8813 negative multiplier).

As the figures show, compared to a year ago, all township multipliers increased except in Chouteau, and all combined tax rates decreased except in Venice Township.

The net effect was a progressively lower tax bill the farther east a family resides in the Quad-Cities, or a progressively higher bill the farther west a home owner lives.

Most homes are not assessed at precisely $10,000 but that figure was used as the simplest starting point for comparison purposes. Multiplication of $6.945 against $11,082 produced the $759

New all-purpose building at SIUE perfect 'birthday' gift

State Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, will never forget the birthday he celebrated on July 31, Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson and other friends of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville also are likely to remember the occasion, they indicated.

The Republican governor honored the Democratic senator here Thursday with a "birthday gift" that Vadalabene said he has been dreaming about for nearly 14 years—a multipurpose building for SIUE, the only major public institution of higher learning in Illinois without a permanent gymnasium.

Before a large crowd gathered on the site of the proposed building to help celebrate the senator's birthday, Gov. Thompson promised to sign Senate Bill 1665, which appropriates $10 million for the construction.

An additional $1 million in student welfare and recreation funds has been designated for the project, and planning funds previously authorized by the state total more than $800,000.

The governor said, "A first-class campus with first-class students deserves first-class facilities. The multipurpose building at SIUE will be such a facility."

The governor then handed Sen. Vadalabene a written promise that when he signs Senate Bill 1665 later this summer, it will include the $10 million appropriation.

Other legislators praised by the governor included Representatives

New zoning law to curb use permits

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record

The proposed new land use and zoning ordinance for Granite City will be discussed a second time by the city's Plan Commission at 1:15 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 14, in the city council chambers in city hall.

The proposed zoning ordinance was prepared by the Southern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMARPC) and that group has been revising the 67-page document since it first was presented to the Plan Commission July 10.

At that meeting, Plan Commission members were critical that the proposed document contained only two commercial categories. They agreed that more categories are needed, so that if commercial zoning is granted to property for a confectionary, someone cannot use that same zoning in future years for a service station, tavern or other business.

Torn Wobbe, senior planner with SIMARPC, said he would revise the document, lumping similar types of commercial businesses into separate commercial zoning categories.

The proposed ordinance also controls home occupations and allows for planned developments, combining residential, commercial and industrial zoning.

The main purpose of the document is to eliminate the use of special use permits almost entirely. The special use permits left the decision of whether or not each should be granted up to the Plan Commission, rather than to the zoning ordinance, which should dictate which uses are lawful and which are not, according to Plan Commission Chairman Dave Morgan.

He said commission members made many enemies by granting or denying requests for special use permits, and the commission's recommendations, frequently were overturned by the Granite City Council.

Basically, Morgan said, he wants an ordinance which spells out, "in black and white," what types of businesses and buildings can go into what types of neighborhoods, thus alleviating the pressure on the Plan Commission when it has to make a judgment on a request for a special use permit.

"I don't even want to hear the words 'special use permit' in the new ordinance," Morgan stated at the first meeting on the new zoning ordinance.

Enjoying State Sen. Sam Vadalabene's birthday cake Thursday at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are, from the left: Eldon Bigham, acting athletic director of the university; William R. Norwood, chairman of the SIUE Board; Kenneth A. Shaw, chancellor of the SIU system; Earl Lazerson, president of SIUE; Senator Vadalabene, and Gov. James R. Thompson. The cake is a model of the new gymnasium and multipurpose building at SIUE, for which Gov. Thompson promised $10 million in construction funds when he signs Senate Bill 1665 later this summer. Sen. Vadalabene has worked nearly 14 years in the legislature to gain approval of a gymnasium for SIUE, the only major institution of higher learning in Illinois without such a facility.

Scouts earn camp awards, badges

Members of Boy Scout Troop 98, sponsored by Maryville School PTA, compiled a total of 53 skill awards, 10 merit badges and 13 tenderfoot ratings while spending a week at Camp Sunnen, near Potosi, Mo.

During the event, the boys went canoeing, swimming, rifle and skeet shooting and visited a mud cave.

They also participated in three campfire activities and a court of honor awards ceremony.

Scout Darrell Young was presented a Boy Scout pocket knife at the Order of the Arrow tap out for hitting six consecutive skit targets.

The troop took second place in the "writer crawl" and earned the Baden Powell camping award.

Other scouts attending were Craig Glasgow, Darrell Schaefer, Doug Hale, Mike Charbonnier, Rich Schur, Jeff Isenberg, Scott Wilson, Eddie Melton, Robert Orescovich, Jon Morgan, Kevin Haddock, David Allen and David Maxwell.

Adults accompanying the boys were Bob Glasgow, Bud Charbonnier, Clay Haddock and Bob Young. Several parents also visited the camp for a family night.

During August, the troop plans to hike the Madison County Nature Trail and have a swim party at Paddlers Swim Club.

Long Lake firemen are busy

Long Lake firemen were called out Thursday to answer a call at the home of Mary Clay, 4922 Brunson Ave.

A can of shortening was left on the stove overnight and the pilot light melted and then ignited the shortening, firemen believe.

Damage, estimated at $800, was limited to the kitchen and range area.

On Wednesday, the Long Lake firemen were called to the home of Barbara Hogue, 480 Breckenridge Lane, at 8:40 p.m., where some bedding over electric wires caught on fire. Damage was estimated at $300.

In addition to the above, the firemen had to extinguish three weed fires this week.

Homemakers sharpening their consumer skills

By DORA ANN KESOLD
As inflation continues to take its toll, it has become increasingly difficult to find pennies to pinch, let alone dollars to save.

But over the past nine years, thousands of Illinois homemakers have found ways to trim costs and save. For example, they have saved an average of $118 each by making effective consumer complaints and an average of $23 each by finding errors on their family's utility bills and having those mistakes rectified.

The more than 99,000 homemakers in six counties have one thing in common: all have participated in a special management resource program taught by their peers and most often known as CHEP.

The CHEP or Consumer and Homemaking Education Program began in July 1971. As the program enters its tenth year this month, 78 program assistants—many of whom were once low-income homemakers themselves—are conducting lessons on credit, budgeting, food buying, clothing, home management, utilities, health, family life and community resources in Madison, St. Clair, Pulaski, Alexander, Jackson and Cook counties.

In Madison and St. Clair counties, program assistants include Wilma Hancock, Eva Davenport, Lenora Brown, Vivian Allen, Juanita Merrifield, Lily Wilson, Margarita Rupert, Lenora Crockett, Julie Gines and Mary Williams. The community workers are Kaolah Adkins, Mary Houston, Zaddie Frison and Pat Shiplo.

Statewide, CHEP has reached more than 33,000 homemakers through home visits, more than 60,000 through telephone consultations and more than 17,000 through group meetings.

The program is funded by the Illinois Board of Education Department of Adult, Vocational and Technical Education, and the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service.

Bohnensiehl reunion to feature historical data

The annual Bohnensiehl family reunion is scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 17 at the VFW Hall in Collinsville. The day's events will begin with a pot luck buffet dinner at noon, followed by a business meeting. This year's chairman of the reunion committee are Paul and Linda Bohnensiehl, 9 Suncrest, Collinsville.

Awards are given in various categories, such as the oldest male attending (last year 82-year-old George Bohnensiehl of Marine, Ill. won), oldest lady attending (last year it was 89-year-old Lou Wilhelm Bohnensiehl of Highland, Ill.), youngest child (last year, Blase Janesee Bohnensiehl, 11-week-old daughter of Paul and Linda Bohnensiehl of Collinsville), family member who traveled farthest to come to the reunion (last year it was Bohnensiehl of Milber, Ga.), couple married the longest (last year George and Tillie Bohnensiehl of Marine, Ill. were celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary).

Family members are expected from numerous towns in Illinois and several other states as well. The reunion was changed this year to a date before school starts to allow out-of-state family members to make the trip. Reservations are already in from Texas, Indiana and Oklahoma and several other states will be represented, the committee reported.

The Bohnensiehl family descends from the immigrant ancestor Jacob Bohnensiehl and his wife, Margaretha Voise Bohnensiehl, who left their home in Neuhofen, Germany in April of 1841 to spend over three months on the ocean arriving in New Orleans in August, 1842. They came up the Mississippi River, first to St. Clair County and within a few years crossed over the county line and bought the family farm in Jarvis Township in 1856. Some of the original property is still owned and farmed by Bohnensiehl descendants today.

Vollie A. and Helen Bohnensiehl of Normal, Okla., last year published the family history and genealogy with over 700 descendants of the immigrant couple. They published a supplement this spring with more details about the German roots of the family and letters from German relatives they discovered. There are also numerous pictures in the supplement, both past and present members of the family. Copies of the supplement will be available at the reunion, the committee said.

A special invitation had been issued to Helke Bohnensiehl of Herzheim am Berg, Germany, who is the "Wine Princess of Rheinland-Pfalz" for this year, to attend the reunion as honored guest. However, she has had to decline since her promotion tour will not cover the area at this time but she hopes to visit the family at another time when she comes to America.

Another invitation was extended to Christian Ruebel of Dusseldorf, whose mother, Elisabeth Bohnensiehl, Ruebel of Genhausen, Germany, has assisted the Bohnensiehls in their reunion research. Christian Ruebel works for a German airline and flies to the United States often. If he can arrange his schedule in August, he plans to attend the reunion. Mrs. Ruebel recently sent the Bohnensiehls a photograph of the Bohnensiehl coat of arms, which includes the inscription: "Wine growers and cultivators in Herxheim am Berg since 1697." Copies of this coat of arms will also be available at the reunion.

Another feature to be on display at the reunion will be a family photograph album-scrabblebook, which was started by the authors of the family history book this past year. Old photographs which have been donated by family members, as well as recent family and individual photographs, will be preserved as a living history of the family. It is their hope new pictures will be added each year, it was noted.

The scrabblebook portion will include clippings about family members, birth announcements, death notices, honors, etc. This will preserve the family's heritage through the years in addition to the published history.

Information about the books or scrabblebooks can be obtained from the Bohnensiehls at 1618 Brookhaven Blvd., Norma, Okla. 73069.

The Bohnensiehl family has met every year for their family reunion since the first organized reunion was held in 1936 in Troy, Ill. in August 1936 (except for the war years). Anyone with a Bohnensiehl name in their background is welcome to attend the reunion. Further information can be obtained from Paul and Mrs. Paul Bohnensiehl, Collinsville, 345-0491 or Vollie G. Bohnensiehl, Collinsville, 345-1191.

Participants in the reunion are urged to bring with them in writing news of births, marriages, etc. If entered in the official minutes of the reunion and also add to the family tree.

Arrest two in alleged beating

Randy J. Pyles, 22, of 1207 Edwardsville Road, and Ralph E. Bauer, 19, of East St. Louis were arrested last week following the alleged beating of a Granite City man.

Responding to a call that someone was being beaten by two men in a blue pickup truck in the 1300 block of Rhodes Street, officers saw a vehicle matching the description, occupied by four people, turn south from 13th Street and stop in a lot in the 1200 block of Edwardsville Road. A license number was obtained.

Persons in the 1300 block of Rhodes told officers they saw two men beating David Brown, 1325 Edwardsville Road, who had left the area after the incident.

Officers went to the home of Pyles, who was identified as one of the two men who allegedly beat Brown.

Pyles, alleged a 1970 Buick Wildcat began July 26, when the windshield of a vehicle parked next to Pyles' house was damaged.

Brown told officers that Pyles and a second man, described as six feet tall with dark hair and a mustache and later identified as Bauer, had chased him, causing him to run his bicycle into a parked car on Rhodes Street and fall to the ground.

Brown alleged Bauer got out of the pickup and began striking and kicking him and was joined by Pyles who also struck and kicked Brown.

It was alleged that Bauer then kicked up Brown's 10-speed bicycle and slammed it to the ground, damaging the pedals and sprockets and spokes on both wheels.

Bauer later was arrested at Pyles' house and was charged with battery and criminal damage to property. He was released at 9:10 p.m. Tuesday after paying a $70 cash bond.

Pyles was booked on a charge of battery and was released upon paying a $35 cash bond.

Gun in car; 2 arrested

Fred M. Foschiatti, 18, of 2815 E. 25th St., was charged with reckless driving and failure to have a firearm owner's identification card and Julio M. Batista, 20, of the Granite City Army Installation, was charged with disorderly conduct after their auto was stopped by Granite City police on Nameoki Road at 1 a.m. Friday.

Officers alleged a south-bound car was seen driving at a high rate of speed on Nameoki Road, followed by another auto. At 23rd Street, the first car made a U-turn and went north, while the second car went left on 23rd Street.

The first car was stopped at 24th Street and Nameoki Road and a shotgun allegedly was found on the rear floorboard.

The occupants said another car had stopped near them earlier at East 25th Street and Nameoki Road and three occupants of that car got out, kicked the auto driven by Foschiatti, and tried to hit the driver.

Foschiatti and Batista left the scene, but returned a short time later, aimed the gun at the occupants of another car and asked if they had been involved in kicking Foschiatti's auto, it was alleged.

When Foschiatti and Batista found they were not involved, they drove away and were stopped a short time later by police, officers believe.

Landmark decisions at BPW convention

Two landmark resolutions, both dealing with discrimination, were adopted by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women at its national convention, which concluded last week in Omaha, Neb.

Of special significance to delegates was the adoption of a change in national bylaws to open membership to any individual who is actively employed in business or the professions and who supports the objectives of the BPW Federation.

The key word is the change from "any woman" to "any individual," it was noted by local delegates who said it now brings the National BPW Federation into a "non-discriminatory" position.

Six local women were among the 2,200 members from 50 states, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia participating in the convention activities.

In recognition of the bylaws change, the Florida BPW Federation announced it had accepted a membership application from John Stillman of Orlando, Fla., making him the first male member of BPW upon its approval.

Stillman attended the convention as an official photographer.
In other action, delegates approved a recommendation that women be required to register for the draft, since young men are required to register.

It was emphasized, however, that BPW did not endorse the draft, nor registration law, but only the equality of men and women. Among several speakers was Kathleen Carpenter, deputy assistant Secretary of Defense, who said all parts of the military are now being opened to women.

She stressed this change in attitude and policy has evolved, not through ERA or reasons of equality, but because women in the military services are performing "so much better than men."

Because of their day-by-day performance and the results of batteries of tests, women are now considered a very important part of the defense of this country, Miss Carpenter stated.

Another resolution passed by the delegates calls for all women to vote after 5 p.m. in the Nov. 4 election to demonstrate the impact of women's votes on the outcome of a national election.

Its adoption was urged in tribute to the 60th anniversary this year of women's suffrage. Although the 19th Amendment was passed in 1919, it was noted that women could not vote in a national election until 1920.

During the convention, the BPW Political Action Committee, which was formed earlier this year, made recommendations of support for congressional candidates who have consistently voted for legislation for women's cause.

National BPW officers installed for 1980-81 were: Darlene Chancellor, Arizona, president; Phyllis Harrison, Michigan, president-elect; Jeri Libner, South Carolina, first vice president; Polly Maden-

Julia K. Art is the retiring president.
The 1981 national convention will take place in San Francisco, Calif.

Continue war on auto chop shops

Alan J. Dixon, secretary of state, said Thursday he will "resist strenuously the latest attempt to stop me from carrying on the campaign against auto thieves and chop shops."

He was notified last week of a federal court suit filed in Chicago by six auto wreckers, rebuilders and parts dealers.

The suit seeks to enjoin Secretary Dixon from enforcing Illinois' law requiring auto parts businesses to keep records of parts purchased and sold.

The suit also attempts to ban law enforcement officers from inspecting the business premises and records.

"The authority of the secretary of state to prescribe rules for record keeping by wreckers and used parts dealers has been upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court. The U.S. Supreme Court refused to review the case when asked to do so by the plaintiffs," Dixon said.

"We will not be intimidated." "During the last few weeks, we have had fresh evidence that our work is effective."

"The National Auto Theft Bureau says vehicle theft reported to NATS insurance companies in the first six months of 1980 was down 2.1 percent in Illinois from 1979, while it rose 14.6 percent nationally."

Employees 'sick' over delay in salary hikes

By ED GURNEY

Five employees of the Madison County Housing Authority called in sick Friday, the day after the housing board took action that will again delay pay raises that were to become effective Jan. 1.

The board rejected a proposed change in its 1980 budget as suggested by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The change concerns the board attorney's retainer, not employees' pay, but the raises are being held up until both HUD and the housing board agree on the budget.

Approximately 10 employees attended the special meeting of the board Thursday. They confronted several board members after the meeting and make known their displeasure.

The raises will be retroactive, but the employees said they need the extra money now to live on.

"It's no big deal, really," said Paula Schuler, assistant executive director, about the employees' absence. "Right now, we're handling it as sick leave. Everyone's entitled to take sick leave... unless we find it's not sick leave."

"It's to be expected."

Schuler said. "Especially when they've waited so long."

Two project managers, two custodians and one central office employee called in sick, she said. Other employees were able to cover for them, she said.

The authority board first submitted a proposed budget to HUD in January. The two sides have been discussing the budget, and how they think it should be changed, ever since.

HUD sent its latest budget proposal to the board about two weeks ago. In it, HUD agreed to the board's proposed pay increases.

Project managers are slated to get 12 percent raises and several others would get 10 percent raises. Custodians, whose pay is set by a labor relations board, will get seven percent hikes.

The board spent about 90 minutes in closed session Thursday discussing the dispute regarding attorney Casper Nighohossian's retainer. The closed session was legal because it involved a possible lawsuit, said Chairman James May of Edwardsville.

May said later that the board plans to file a lawsuit against HUD if HUD once more refuses to go along with what the board wants to pay Nighohossian.

The board at its Aug. 14 regular meeting is expected to approve a budget keeping Nighohossian's retainer at $9,600. HUD has agreed to a figure of $8,000, the lawyer said.

Nighohossian said that

HUD contends he is being paid too much for the work he is doing. Compared to other housing authorities, he is paid more, "but they (the board here) uses me more," Nighohossian said.

He believes part of the problem is that HUD has allegedly tried at times to exert more control over the housing authority than it is legally entitled to, and he has advised the board accordingly.

May said the board will set a time limit for HUD to rule on the board's new budget proposal.

"Come September, it'll come to a head one way or another," Nighohossian said.

Arrest after rifle is fired on Cleveland

Alan B. Kohneman, 17, of 1738 Cleveland Blvd., was arrested at 5 a.m. Friday on charges of reckless conduct, criminal damage to property and possessing a rifle without a firearm owner identification card. Bond was set at $700.

Two boys complained at 11:45 p.m. Thursday of being fired at by a man with a rifle in the 1700 block of Cleveland, and 62 bullet holes were noted in four S. Wilson & Co. construction trailers.

Fifteen spent-shell casings were found in the front yard at 1738, investigators alleged.

In an apartment not allowed to be occupied due to a fire, police told of finding four spent shell casings and a semi-automatic 22 caliber rifle containing 19 live rounds.

In an unrelated case, a 14-year-old boy was arrested at 8 a.m. Friday for disorderly conduct and aggravated assault after allegedly aiming an air rifle at Charles Hardin of the 1900 block of Cleveland Blvd. in the 1700 block alley between Cleveland and Delmar Avenue.

The youth also is accused of breaking two windows in a home in the 1700 block of Cleveland and attempting to pry the lock off a door. He was referred to juvenile authorities.

More funds for residential weatherization

Ruben Williams, executive director of the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission, reports that the weatherization program has just received confirmation from the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs that the 1980 contract has been extended until Dec. 31, and the program has been allocated an additional $488,880 to complete work on 350 more homes.

"During the course of this year's weatherization program, we will complete insulation of 514 homes for Madison County senior citizens, handicapped and low income people," Williams said.

"Madison County's weatherization program was the first program in the state to complete its original contract and to receive additional money."

Applications are needed all over the county, and any person who was qualified for the energy assistance program that was conducted this past winter and spring could be eligible for the weatherization program. The income guidelines are as follows:

"Family size allowable income—one person, $4,787; two persons, $5,787; three persons, $6,787; four, $9,312; five, $10,837; six, $12,362; and seven, $13,887."

Applications are taken at your local supervisor's office and all Madison County EOC sites, including the Tri-Cities Center, 451-7624.

"For further information, families may contact Mary L. Dameron, director of weatherization, 45 S. State Road, Cottage Hills (1-258-0246)."

Pulmonary unit permits early lung treatment, rehabilitation

Under the direction of Dr. Robert Bruce, pulmonary specialist, a new pulmonary function laboratory has been opened at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City.

The $50,000 testing unit was donated to the Medical Center by the SEMC Auxiliary, Helen Bergfield, Auxiliary president, says. "The unit is one example of the ways better patient care can be received at SEMC, and the Auxiliary is proud to have a part in that."

"This unit is a valuable diagnostic tool," says Willis Mueller, respiratory therapist at SEMC. Using the data obtained from the testing unit and taking chest X-rays, a doctor can determine which of several types of lung diseases a patient has, he adds.

According to Mike Range, of Edwardsville, director of Cardio-Pulmonary Services at SEMC, an important diagnostic function of the testing unit is differentiating between obstructive and restrictive categories of disease.

"Normal lungs are like a balloon," Range explains. "The lungs inflate with air and the elasticity of the lungs forces the air out."

"In obstructive disease, the lungs are like a paper bag. The lungs inflate, but it is harder to push the air out."

"With restrictive disorders, the lungs are rigid, and it is hard for the patient to take air in."

"In this area, chronic obstructive pulmonary diseases, such as asthma, emphysema and chronic bronchitis, are much more common than restrictive disorders," Range adds.

The acquisition of this testing unit is particularly helpful to the patients and staff at SEMC, Range says, "because we used to have to send patients to St. Louis to have the types of testing done that we are now able to do right here."

Dr. Bruce, director of the pulmonary Lab and assistant professor of medicine at Washington University, sees many advantages in the new facility.

"There is a growing emphasis in medicine on preventive and rehabilitative care."

"Instead of beginning treatment on a patient years after the disease process has started, necessitating the use of a respirator, it is better to treat younger people, particularly smokers. We can then assess their condition and begin a plan of preventative care or rehab care before the damage to their lungs has gone too far.

"Preventative care is cost efficient."

"Early treatment can reduce the frequency and length of hospitalization, as well as the number of persons who must collect some form of disability payment because they are unable to work."

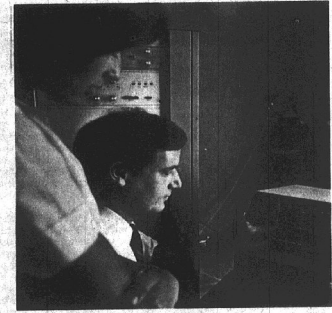

"If a patient is found to have some form of lung disease or damage, rehabilitation can help him or her lead a more comfortable life."

"There are three parts to the rehab program," says Dr. Bruce. "First, we want patients to be able to use 100 percent of their maximum lung ability."

"Second, we need to recondition and strengthen the muscles of the body."

"Because patients with lung disease become short of breath when they exert themselves, they begin to lead more sedentary lives and their muscles become deconditioned."

"Exercise increasing their general muscle tone, improving blood circulation, makes patients feel better and they are able to tolerate more activity without shortness of breath.

"The third part of rehabilitation is teaching the patient to cope with the illness. This includes psychological help, assistance in modifying lifestyles, and teaching patients about their illness. "Pulmonary disease is a serious problem nationwide."

"The death rate from these disorders has been doubling every five years for the past 20 years," he points out.

Many veterans garnering jobs in government

The Veterans Administration keeps rewriting the rule book on hiring Vietnam era veterans via the Veterans Readjustment Appointment Authority.

The measure allows federal agencies to hire certain Vietnam era veterans without competition on Civil Service examinations and subsequently convert them to career, or career conditional, appointments after two years of satisfactory employment or training.

VA ranked number one among federal agencies with 5,491 VRA hires in the last fiscal year. Halfway through fiscal 1980, it had nearly matched that 12-month total.

Last year, VA accounted for more than one-third of the 15,785 government-wide VRA hires.

Since the program began in 1970, more than 136,000 appointments have been made with it, 56,000 of them at VA.

In May 1980, the agency counted 43,000 Vietnam era veterans among its 237,000 employees. They outnumber veterans of any other war on VA payrolls.

Information on the program can be obtained by contacting the nearest VA office. VRA options are open to veterans whose military service was between Aug. 5, 1964, and May 7, 1975, the official dates marking the beginning and end of the Vietnam war era.

Gas gone from church buses

The theft of gasoline from church buses at the Church of Christ, 2130 Clark Ave., is commonplace, a woman told police last week in reporting one such incident.

The woman left the church with other people and saw a car parked near a church bus and a man crouched at the rear of her personal auto while the gas port open and the cap removed.

A gas can and rubber hose were laying beside the car. The man was described as 5 feet, 10 inches tall, about 20 years old, and was wearing glasses, blue work overalls and a chain necklace.

He told the woman he was not stealing gas, but looking for a ring he had dropped.

The man was told to leave the lot and he carried the can of gasoline over to the parked auto and left, she said.

It was discovered later the gas cap and fuel were missing from one of the buses.

Silver Dollar City weekend

Reservations will be accepted starting at 9 a.m. Tuesday for the Granite City Park District's annual trip to Silver Dollar City, near Branson, Mo.

The weekend excursion will take place Sept. 19 through Sept. 21. Forty-five seats will be available on the bus, which will be leaving the Wilson Park Ice Rink parking area about 7:30 a.m. Friday, Sept. 19.

Cost of the trip will be determined by the number of persons occupying a room at Bontres Lodge. The lodge is located one mile from Silver Dollar City on Table Rock Lake.

The bus fare and motel fee must be paid at the time reservations are made at Wilson Park office. The cost of additional side trips may be paid at the time they are taken, it was noted.

Enroute to the Ozarks, a stop will be made at a winery in St. James, Mo., and the group will be served a late lunch and also tour the campus at the School of the Ozarks at Hollister, Mo.

A country-western show is scheduled that evening near Bontres Lodge.

Saturday, Sept. 20, will be spent at Silver Dollar City where the popular Crafts Festival will be in session.

That evening, the group will be in Branson for a show by the Foggy River Boys.

Other points of interest in the lake area will be visited during a Sunday morning tour.

Lunch will be served in Springfield, Mo., and the bus will leave for the return trip about 1 p.m.

The cost of bus transportation is $28.50 per person and the room fees range from $33.95 per night for a single to $10.00 per night for four persons occupying the same room.

Gas refunds to be halted

Illinois Power Company last week received approval from the Illinois Commerce Commission to end a monthly $3.35 refund to residential and commercial natural gas customers.

The special fund from which the refund is drawn has been depleted, the company said.

The refunds—in the form of a credit applied to customers' monthly gas bills and deducted from total charges—began last November.

The special fund was created by the Commission in 1974 from part of the charges paid by limited firm industrial gas customers.

The number of customers in that rate classification has decreased from 22 last November to five at the present time. Within the next month or two, Illinois Power expects to have only two customers in the classification who contribute to the special fund.

Burglar gets TV, $300 cash

The burglary of two construction trailers, owned by Ralph Kort Construction Co. of Highland and located at Precast Metals, Route 3 at Shafer Road, was reported last week.

The initial report said only an AM-FM radio, valued at $20, was stolen, but an inventory was to be taken.

Entry was gained by breaking the haps off padlocked doors.

A spokesman for the firm said five burglaries have occurred at the construction site in the past two months.

New methods may soon save drowning victims

By VALERIE EVENEDEN

Members of BURT, Inc., the underwater search and rescue team based in Granite City, have undergone a training course conducted by the U.S. Coast Guard, which will allow them to attempt revival of drowning victims, rather than just recovery of the body.

The team of qualified scuba divers assists law enforcement agencies in Madison County and elsewhere.

In the past, it had been accepted that a person under water more than six minutes could not be revived, a BURT spokesman advised.

The new revival method, known as cold water near drowning (Hypothermia) resuscitation, shows a potential for possibly saving up to 50 percent of future drowning victims, if the divers can begin their work within 30 minutes from the time of drowning.

Proper on-site resuscitation is as important as the time limit, the team spokesman said.

To successfully utilize the new revival method, it will be imperative that anyone who sees a drowning call local authorities immediately, so the recovery team can be activated.

To ensure immediate response, the BURT team has just purchased a vehicle and will be equipping it as soon as funds become available.

The 16-man team has been organized since 1972 and has been funded solely by the efforts of its individual members.

However, some sophisticated respiratory equipment will be needed, as well as additional diving equipment and communication devices, to fully implement the new life-saving program, it was noted.

About half of the BURT team shortly will be taking extended cardiac training and most members will attend a special Search and Rescue course this weekend in Missouri.

The latter course is designed to polish skills necessary in the quick recovery of victims, the spokesman stated.

The team also plans to conduct training seminars for rescue squads at most Madison County fire departments and for local medical staffs.

These seminars will teach the revival methods and definitive cardiac treatment once a victim is being transported and then reaches a hospital.

The new revival techniques, which require continuous application, are not in use in this area at the present time, it was noted.

Now that BURT sees a potential for life saving, instead of just "body recovery," members plan to call on the community and local government bodies for financial aid to facilitate acquisition of needed equipment, the spokesman advised.

The many hours of work by each individual member are donated.

Due to the cost of necessary equipment, however, the team no longer will be able to be self-supporting, it was explained.

Any individual or organization interested in making a donation of emergency equipment or funds is asked to contact Kent Speers at 797-0239, or Bruce Evans at 452-3085 as soon as possible.

To accomplish its revamped program, BURT recently became incorporated through a not-for-profit charter.

It was explained that in order to attain incorporated status, the team was required to discontinue its formal affiliation with the Bubblemasters Scuba Diving Club, although team personnel also are active club members.

In addition to members from Granite City, BURT divers represent the communities of Alton, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Brighton, Fosterburg and Stanton.

Squabbles over GC budgets now are history; back to business as usual

By GARY SCHNEIDER

Now that the dust has settled from the city council's fight over the new city budgets, the aldermen can get down to business as usual.

Some hard feelings may remain from the division of feelings within the council over whether the city can support a general fund budget of $7,202,086 and other budgets totaling $7,087,148.

Although some aldermen changed their minds during the month-long deliberations on the budgets, most of the time at least five of the 14 aldermen were in favor of a budget package prepared by two members of the council's finance committee, which included layoffs and cuts in most city departments to bring the budgets in line with the city's anticipated revenue.

City Treasurer Nick Petrillo seemed to side with those who felt expenses must be trimmed.

Most other aldermen supported the budgets prepared by Mayor Paul Schuler and side David Nolan, which ultimately were adopted with only minor revisions. Those budgets called for maintaining all city departments at their current manpower levels.

The heated debates on the city budgets did not take place in closed caucuses or "smoke-filled room" discussions. Feelings were freely vented in public on the council floor. Schuler called it, "a good thing," and said such debates show that the aldermen are concerned about their city and are studying the issues.

Alderman Sam Whitner voted against the budget, but said he would be willing to change his vote, if necessary, so it could be passed by the deadline, which was Thursday.

That angered Alderman Roy Poulos, who said he feels an urge to ask such questions.

Alderman Charles Douglas questioned parts of the budget, which angered Mayor Paul Schuler. Schuler told Douglas that if he did his homework, he would not have to ask such questions.

The majority of the council supported the Schuler-Nolan budgets, which angered Finance Committee Chairman Paul Ray Bowler, one of the authors of the budgets which were rejected.

Bowler predicts the city's income will not support the new budgets and will lead to increased taxes, borrowing or massive layoffs in the future.

City Treasurer Nick Petrillo was frustrated because he will not have enough funds to pay all of the city's bills until taxes are received and he fears the situation will be even worse next summer.

Whitner is unhappy because the new budget contains $11,000 to send city officials to the annual convention, an expense he feels is unnecessary.

It's all over. The budgets are passed. Now the aldermen can mend their fences and try to work together, at least until campaigning starts for the city elections in April, 1981.

A special meeting of the council on the budget followed a special hearing last week, attended by 24 city residents. Only one minor change was made in the mammoth appropriation package. A total of $1,500, was taken from the revenue sharing budget for beautification and trees and was given to the city treasurer's office for a customer counter.

Treasurer Nick Petrillo was assured that sufficient funds could be found in the general fund to replace air conditioners in the treasurer's and city clerk's offices which were not operating properly.

Alderman Roy Poulos of the Third Ward said he is worried that there will be insufficient funds raised by the city to support such large budgets, and he said the council will order layoffs of city employees in November or December, if it becomes apparent the money is running out.

Mayor Paul Schuler responded, "You are right, but if we don't pass it (the budget package) tonight, city workers are not going to be paid."

Alderman Bowler said recent preliminary figures released by the U.S. Census Department showing a 10 percent decline in the population of the city, and he said the reduction will decrease the city's income by at least $11,200.

Schuler agreed, saying, "You are probably right, there had been some decrease in population, but some knowledgeable people agree that residential property does not pay its share of the taxes. In other words, homeowners do not pay enough in taxes to pay for the services the city provides them."

"In Granite City, the vast majority of our tax base comes from industry, commercial and business. The per capita (loss) is a minimal loss, $42,000 is a realistic figure, according to the projections."

"The last time (when 1970 census figures were released), we had to have a recount to get up to 40,700. If we are forced to challenge it (the census count) we will. Remember, these are only estimated figures, not final," the mayor concluded.

The mayor also said he feels there has been too much discussion on the reliance of the city on federal revenue sharing for salaries. He said he has been assured that the federal government is likely to approve the continuation of revenue sharing.

"Remember," he added, "we included only $14,000 in revenue sharing for salaries which we would have to make up, should the program stop entirely, and that is a very, very small part of our $7 million (general fund) budget."

Several department heads complained that their budgets were "inflated" for the convenience of the computer, since several non-related expenses were lumped into unrelated departments.

For example, the police department budget now includes the expenses for maintaining traffic lights and collecting for parking meters and tickets, and the street department budget absorbed the energy and rental expenses for all of the city's street lights, it was pointed out.

Schuler said that as city employees become more proficient in the use of the computer, it is likely such unrelated categories can be put back in their proper categories before next year's budgets are prepared.

Scott gets year; Fahner appointed

Governor James R. Thompson has appointed Tyrone C. Fahner as the 37th attorney general of Illinois.

The governor's actions followed the sentencing of Attorney General William J. Scott who was sentenced March 19 of filing a false federal income tax return from 1972. Scott was sentenced to a year and a day in prison.

Gov. Thompson declared the office vacant after the sentencing, as he is required to do by statute, and named Fahner to succeed Scott under his constitutional powers.

"Tyrone Fahner has demonstrated his integrity as a public servant, his ability to act swiftly and fairly when action is called for is his hallmark," Thompson said.

"Throughout his public career, he has proved to be one who rolls up his sleeves and pitches right in when there is a job to be done. His sound judgment and knowledge of our judicial system have been clearly established throughout his public service."

Fahner, an extremely high quality of his performance in the United States attorney's office and as director of the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement indicates that he will be an outstanding attorney general."

Fahner, 37, Evanston, was sworn in as attorney general in the Illinois Supreme Court Chambers, Daley Civic Center, Chicago, Illinois Supreme Court Justice Daniel P. Ward administered the oath of office.

Fahner, his wife, Anne, and children, Margaret, 6, Daniel, 4, and Molly, 2, flew to the governor's residence in Springfield for a news conference.

The new attorney general and the governor also met with the attorney general's Springfield and Chicago staffs.

Born in Detroit, Fahner is a 1965 graduate of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. He received his doctor of law degree from

Wayne State University Law School in 1968.

He entered Northwestern University's master of criminal laws program as a Ford Foundation grant recipient in 1969 and received his master of law degree in 1971.

At Northwestern from 1969 to 1971, Fahner was a member of the Criminal Defense Litigation Unit.

From 1971 to 1979, he served as director of the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement. At the time of his appointment as attorney general, he was a member of the Illinois Racing Board.

He was a partner in the Chicago law firm of Freeman, Robbe, Freeman and Salzman from 1975 to 1977.

He was an assistant U.S. attorney for the Northern District of Illinois from 1971 to 1976, serving as chief of the Official Corruption Section from 1974 to 1975 and as deputy chief of the Consumer Fraud and Civil Rights Section from 1975 to 1976.

While an assistant U.S. attorney, he tried 22 jury cases from 1971 to April 1973. The majority involved financial crimes in the areas of tax, bankruptcy, securities fraud and consumer fraud.

He left the Department of Law Enforcement in January 1979 to become partner in the Chicago law firm of Mayer, Brown and Platt.

Miofsky to practice in Missouri

Andrew J. Miofsky of Granite City was recently admitted to the practice of law in the state of Missouri after passing that state's bar examination earlier this year, and completing the oath of admission last month.

Miofsky, a 1979 graduate of Washington University School of Law, was licensed attorney and counselor at law for practice in the state of Illinois in ceremonies presided over by State Supreme Court Chief Justice Goldenhersh last year.

In addition, he has been admitted to practice in the U.S. Federal District Court for the Southern District of Illinois and the Interstate Commerce Commission. His plans include gaining admission to similar federal courts in Central Illinois and Missouri.

He currently is associated with the trial firm of Wiseman, Shaikewitz, McGovern and Wahl and maintains an office in Alton. His area of practice centers in Madison County and includes the general Metropolitan St. Louis area.

Miofsky, a lifelong Quad-City resident, and his wife, Karen, reside in Granite City.

Members will convene at the New Salem Baptist Church, 1240 Klein St., Venice, according to the Rev. John Henry Williams, branch president.

GRANITE CITY — An amplified voice blared out, "Here are the results of the last event..." and "Swimmers for the next event please report to the blocks..."

Six young swimmers, their bodies arched in anticipation, strained their senses on the platforms above the blue water of Paddlers' swimming pool.

The starting gun screamed out a shot startling spectators with their backs turned to the pool and releasing the coiled energy in the swimmers as if six tense springs were suddenly set free.

A constant procession of swimmers repeated the process at Paddler's Swim Club Saturday. It was the championships of the Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association. Beginning early in the morning, some 74 events consisting of six heats each kept the swimming pool a busy place all day long.

bodies cut the water's surface like knives. Nearly a third of the way down the length of the pool a head popped up, sucked hungrily for air, then turned back into the blue water.

Along the sides of the pool meet officials, conspicuous in their white shirts and shorts, propped the concrete watching the swimmers.

Back slightly on one side behind a row of deck chairs wet-headed kids tried to fill the periods of time between their scheduled events by playing cards or sitting quietly.

From somewhere a woman's voice yelled out, "Come on Shawn! You can do it! Let's go!"

Pulling up close to the water from where he leaned against a fence

Armel Allen joined the chant, "Come on Shawn! Come on buddy!" As he yelled, he followed the swimmers' progress in the water on foot at the pool's edge.

For Allen the cheering was kind of a follow-through to what he's been involved with the past few weeks. As meet director, Allen was responsible for the climactic day-long marathon swim meet.

Perhaps a hundred or more swimmers from the eight swim clubs competing in the meet, not to mention even more parents, volunteers and spectators, relied greatly on Allen's planning and preparation.

"It's a horrible job," Allen said. "But I wouldn't do it if I didn't enjoy it. It took the cooperation of everyone connected with Paddler's Swim Club and weeks to prepare. Everyone was just terrific."

A testament to the prevailing spirit of helpfulness at the meet was the quiet efficiency with which the whole process — from bullpen to starting blocks to water to finishing times — was orchestrated. It rivaled the technique of the swimmers.

"The most important thing is getting good people for every job," Allen said. Starting with his assistant Bill Baldwin and reaching every phase of the meet, he said experienced people from every club had donated their services.

Each had one thing in mind, "It's all for the kids," Allen said, "well, the parents and coaches, too. These kids have to be dedicated. They spend six days a week in some cases preparing for a minute in the water. They've put more time into this than any of us have."

In some cases, just as in every event, some of those minutes in the water were disappointments, other victories. But in every case the meet ran smoothly on.

Even the weather cooperated with an overcast sky, no rain and mild temperature. When it was over Allen could relax. Since the meet rotates among the various clubs, Paddlers will not host the championships for four more years.

Armel Allen said couldn't be blamed, though, if he began preparing for that time tomorrow.

Paddlers wins SWISA crown

GRANITE CITY — The Paddlers swim team of Granite City capped off one of its most successful seasons ever Saturday by winning the Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association championship meet at its own pool.

Paddlers finished the meet with 46 1/2 points. Montclair of Edwardsville was second with 39, Summersport of Alton third with 37 1/2.

Corral sweeps Maryville Sox

By TOM SCHOCKER

For the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — The name of the game is frustration. It's frustrating to try and catch a first place team for most of the season. But it is even more frustrating to finally do all you can and have a chance for that spot, only to find out the effort was in vain.

Manager Ken Crawford and his Corral Liquor Cowboys of the Inter-City League knows all too well about the situation. Before the start of its doubleheader action at South field Sunday, Corral trailed McDonalds by a mere one game. A twinning by the Cowboys and at least one loss from McDonalds would ensure Corral of a tie for first place.

The Cowboys held up their end of the deal sweeping by Maryville 4-2 and 9-4. However McDonalds couldn't oblige, taking both ends of its encounter with Edwardsville (see related story). Therefore, the Cowboys conclude the regular season still behind McDonalds, by one game.

Armel Allen said "I'm really mad," said Crawford. "We played good ball and have a chance for first place and it really doesn't matter. McDonalds won both of its games today." On the bright side, the Cowboys' performance against Maryville is still worthy of recognition.

In a contest marred by the charge of a formal protest, Corral managed to subdue Maryville largely on the strong arm of starting pitcher Dan Herstein. "The strongest aspect of these two games," said Crawford, "has to be Herstein's pitching. I didn't realize he had so many strikeouts." What exactly Herstein did, was to fan nine batters while throwing a two-hitter in five innings. Both hits were of the extra base variety and unfortunately, one was a homerun. He even found time to pick a runner off of first base.

The subject of a protest arose in the Maryville fourth inning. After Brad Gregor had been hit by a pitch, Mark Shaeke stroked a chopping grounder toward Herstein on the mound. Deflecting the ball with his glove, Herstein caused it to change direction, and it struck the umpire. Tom Greco picked it up and tossed to second for the apparent force out. That's when the roof caved in.

"Maryville manager Harold 'Honey' Oberkell stormed off the bench, claiming both runners should have been safe which was contrary to the umpire's call of out at second. 'The umpires were not sure of the call,' said Oberkell, 'and they didn't show me a rule book. I'm not a sour grape, but I just had to keep them on top of things. As of now the protest still stands. But I haven't made up my mind whether I'll turn it in or not."

Earl Schardan, league president, was in attendance and was asked to interject his thoughts on the play. "If the ball would have hit the umpire first, the runners would have been safe. But since one of the players touched it first, the ball is still in play. As far as I'm concerned, the umpires made the right call. I'm not the final judge, though. The protest by Maryville will be handled by the Board of Arbitration. They will have the final say."

As it was, the umpires ruling stood. Corral went on to put a further crimp in Maryville's day by scoring Twice in the second game of the double header, Edwardsville failed to pick off McDonald's base runners trapped in run downs at third base. Both times the runner later scored.

A 2-1 and a 7-3 win gave McDonald's a season record of 14-6 and forced its closest rival Maryland into a corner.

In order to remain tied for first Maryville will have to win each of its remaining games.

Handicapped swimmers show their stuff

'What handicap?' swimmers ask . . .

GRANITE CITY — Even though there were many braces, crutches and canes in evidence here Friday, there were no handicaps. At least not to the athletes who competed in the annual Handicapped Swimming Meet.

The Handicapped Swimming Program, sponsored in part by the Tri-City Chapter of the American Red Cross, held its annual meet at the residence of Roger and Agnes Bowler on Mockingbird Lane in Granite City Friday. And it was a success!

The handicapped use the pool at the Bowler residence. There were various age groups among the swimmers, ranging from 2½ to 60. In some cases, volunteers helped them individually to swim. They have been swimming for the last four weeks in the program, five days a week from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Friday was their show-off day. Each swimmer received an award after his or her swim.

A surprise highlight of the day was a special award given to Joanne Higgins, who heads up the Handicapped Swimming Program for the Red Cross. The award was given to her for her special concern and hard work for the program.

The scene was a busy one Friday at the swim meet. But nobody minded.

They were showing their stuff.

WORKSHOP ON CONSERVATION at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Harry Kircher (left), professor of earth science, geography and planning, discusses land use and regional conservation problems. The summer workshop has been a popular course for area elementary and secondary teachers during the past ten years.

MELVIN PRICE, U.S. Congressman (D), spoke to the congregation at Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., last week in conjunction with the church observance entitled, "I Love America." A basket dinner was served after the service and during the afternoon a cantata was presented at 2:30.

GC church observes 'I Love America'

With the sanctuary decorated in red, white and blue, and a large American flag suspended over the pulpit area, Rev. Morris Anderson, pastor of the Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., welcomed local, state and federal dignitaries to the Sunday morning worship service in celebration of "I Love America" Sunday.

As the congregation sang the National Anthem, the colors were presented by Tim Groves and Edward LaRue Jr., of Boy Scout Troop 146. State Representative Sam Wolf led the congregation in the pledge to the flag after which Granite City Superintendent of Streets, Lionel Portelli, led in the morning prayer.

The church choir sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" under the direction of Nick Poplichak, minister of music. They were accompanied by Larry Christian, organist, Martha Cornett, pianist, Phil Whitehead, trumpeter, and Bruce Patterson, drummer. Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, when introduced, spoke briefly, then introduced U.S. Congressman Melvin Price who commended the church on its patriotic program and commented that more patriotism should be shown by each and every citizen of our country.

Monty Kindle, accompanied at the piano by his son, Richard, sang "The Statue of Liberty" followed by Rev. Anderson's sermon, "Time is Running Out for America," using Psalms 33:12 as his text.

A basket dinner followed the morning service in the new fellowship hall, and was attended by approximately 200.

At 2:30, the choir, once again under the direction of Poplichak, presented "I Love America," a cantata by John W. Peterson and Don Wyrzten. Solo parts were sung by Garland Horn, Alicia Poplichak and Marilyn Parker, and portions were narrated by Tom Baker.

Other choir members included Darlena Anderson, Dorothy Miller, Millie Hanks, Nikki Underwood, Julie VonNida, Lisa Ely, Martha Webb, Clay Parker, Don Miller, Terry Ely, J. B. Wilson, Mike Hanks and Ron Ferry.

Livesays from all over will gather in state

The 24th annual meeting of the Livesay Historical Society will be held in Effingham Thursday through Saturday, Aug. 14-16, according to Ray Livesay of Mattoon, president. Many Livesay descendants live in this region.

The three-day program, which will attract descendants from across the nation, will feature talks and workshops on the history of the Livesay family, tours of the Southern Illinois Lincolnland area, and a picnic on the Ray Livesay lawn. Headquarters for the national family meeting will be the Ramada Inn in Effingham.

Officers of the Livesay Historical Society, in addition to James Ray Livesay, are Joseph B. Livesay, Decatur, vice president; Mrs. Ralph Greene, Snedville, Tenn., secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Virginia Smith, Mercersburg, Pa., bulletin editor; Hugh K. Livesay, Cornwells Heights, Pa., scrapbook editor; and James J. Livesay, Jackson, Miss., historian.

Founded in Roanoke, Va., in 1907, the historical society promotes research on the history of the family and a spirit of family loyalty, officials said.

The non-profit organization publishes a quarterly bulletin mailed to several hundred Livesay descendants. It has published two general works on the family and assisted in the publication of several branch histories.

The Livesays trace their origin as a family to 19th Century Lancashire in Northwest England. They were among the earliest settlers of this nation during the Colonial period.

The earliest record of the presence of Livesays in Illinois is found in Washington County, in the late 1820s and early 1830s, when settlers from Tennessee purchased land in the Kaskaskia River area.

They were united in marriage at the First United Pentecostal Church. Formerly Miss Tammy Maeras the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry S. Maeras, 811 Iowa St., Madison.

Wilson-Maeras wedding at First Pentecostal

Miss Tammy Maeras of Madison became the bride of Steve Wilson of Granite City in a double ring ceremony performed on July 19 at the First United Pentecostal Church.

The Rev. James Hall officiated at the 5 o'clock afternoon service before an altar decorated with heart shaped candelabra.

A program of selected wedding music was provided by Organist Bill Hubbard who also sang a song and accompanied soloist, Carol Wilson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry S. Maeras, 811 Iowa St., Madison. Parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. David Wilson, reside at 1916 Benton St.

For her wedding, the former Miss Maeras chose a floor length gown of ivory silk organza over taffeta.

Schiffli embroidery accented the empire bodice designed with a high neckline and V-style yoke edged with a self fabric ruffle which also formed cap sleeves.

Her slim A-line skirt was hemmed with a deep border of scallop Schiffli embroidery that swept into a full chapel train.

She wore matching embroidered gauntlets which fit over her hands in bridal points and she wore an ivory picture hat trimmed with a satin ribbon, bow and streamers.

The bride's bouquet was a colonial arrangement of summer blossoms.

Matron of honor Mrs. Jan Fletcher, a sister of the bride, selected a floor length gown of floral print polyester knit in a peach hue fashioned with a blouse bodice and spaghetti straps and solid color slim skirt. A handkerchief style stole created a tunic effect.

The bridesmaids Kathy and Kriss Wilson, sisters of the groom, were attired in identical gowns in shades of Nile green and maize.

Each attendant carried bouquets of carnations, roses and baby's breath in pastel colors and they wore floral wreaths as headpieces.

Valerie Perry and Doug Jones, served as flower girl and ringbearer. She was dressed in an ivory lace frock trimmed in colors matching the bridesmaids attire. She also wore a floral headpiece and held a basket filled with rainbow color petals.

Brian Ohlmstead served as best man with groomsmen Jim Hell and Gerry Puller. Seating the guests were Dennis Henson and Mike Mitchell.

A dinner reception was held after the ceremony at the Granite City Township Hall. Parents of the groom hosted a rehearsal dinner at Ravennell's Restaurant.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Maeras wore a floor length mauve chiffon over taffeta dress featuring a fitted bodice with a scoop neckline, long sleeves and pleated skirt.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of North High School and the groom was graduated from South High School in 1977.

The Rev. Roy Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony at 5 o'clock in the evening.

Organist Jodi Alexander accompanied Karen Cline as she sang, "I'll Never Love This Way Again," "Sometimes," "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

For her wedding the former Miss Blankenship wore a full length white organza gown designed with a high neckline and sheer yoke accented with Chantilly lace motifs which were repeated on the molded bodice and long sheer bishop sleeves.

Deep decorative lace insets enhanced the lower part of the skirt and the detachable train.

Her melody length veil was edged with a lace trim and attached to a Chantilly lace camelot headpiece, etched with pearls. She carried a lace covered Bible topped with pink roses, white stephanotis and greenery.

Mrs. Alicia Popelchak served a matron of honor with bridesmaids, Miss Diana Phipps, Mrs. Linda Blankenship, a sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Sheryl Patton.

The attendants were dressed alike in long pink print organza gowns fashioned with camisole bodices and bouffant skirts enhanced with gathered flounces.

Penny Sue Cooper and Mark Archer, cousins of the bride, served as flower girl and ringbearer, respectively. She wore a pink dotted swiss frock created with a ruffle at the neckline and hemline and a pink ribbon that marked the natural waistline. She carried a white lace basket of pink rose petals.

'Red tape,' high cost in standby fuel rationing plan

The decision to register 19- and 20-year-old men for the Selective Service System may not have attracted the active enthusiasm of some of the population, but the decision appears to have developed a broad base of support. In contrast, the standby gasoline rationing plan that went into effect Thursday already is being assailed and may not muster even majority public backing.

Federal legislators failed to assemble enough votes to block the rationing proposal developed by the Department of Energy, but their comments raise serious questions about it—particularly the huge cost and the cumbersome procedures. A study by House Republican Policy Committee members says, "It will cost over $100 million to prepare this plan for further planning, $464 million to make it ready for use, and $2 billion annually to operate."

The committee adds that the rationing program would distribute coupons "based on a national file of vehicle owners, a file which does not exist and cannot exist for 14 months, and then would be 20 percent inaccurate," meanwhile creating "a new currency in coupons which would equalize the price of gasoline above the market price through a 'white market.'"

Noting that Congress rejected a previous DOE rationing plan in 1979, the committee contends there now are only "cosmetic changes, consisting largely of a series of special treatments for certain groups, the form of undefined priorities rather than actual answers to some of the criticisms of the earlier plan."

"Additional allocations would not be automatic but, rather, would require every farmer and business to apply to either the Department of Energy or to a local rationing board for additional coupons. This would entail a review of each applicant's past tax receipts and 'would create a bureaucratic nightmare' that could not possibly work either fairly or quickly."

New gym will be useful to SIUE and entire region

Quad-Cityans share in the jubilation over Governor James Thompson's approval Thursday of funding for construction of a multipurpose building at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

As has been pointed out here and elsewhere many times, the 19-year-old local university is the only site of a major Illinois institution of higher learning that lacks physical education facilities.

Much of the credit for financing the project goes to Senator Sam Vadasbale and to Representatives Everett Steele, Sam Wolf and Jim McPike, as well as legislators from the State of Illinois, the SIUE board and administration. Gov. Thompson timed his announcement to coincide with Sen. Vadasbale's birthday, and the birthday of the SIUE was in the shape of the new $11 million gymnasium.

Work is to start this fall, with completion in early 1982.

There will be facilities for instruction, recreation and competition in basketball, tennis, volleyball, wrestling, gymnastics, jogging, badminton, handball, racquet-

"Despite the complexity and improbability of managing this program successfully, the administration is attempting to buy support for its plan by attempting to show that the plan will provide supplemental allotments to firms based on historical gasoline consumption; expand the definition of agricultural priority to include agricultural processing and distribution as well as production; include commercial fishing and forestry; and enlarge the number of priority categories to include taxicabs, short-term rental vehicles, certain telecommunications, newspaper distribution, public utilities, search and rescue operations, for-hire mail and parcel delivery, and energy production."

"The plan is virtually a blank check. It is nothing but a sketchy outline of what the department may or may not do, leaving many critical aspects unresolved until the time of emergency, which may be too late."

"The plan approved by Congress, through failure to block it, will require an additional 12 to 15 months' work just to place it at a standstill level. It would require still another three months' work to actually ready the plan for implementation. Congress, by failing to act, advocated a policy of inaction and the faceless bureaucracy of the executive branch."

Although the attack on the plan is barred, and although the GOP's criticism may be partly partisan in nature, it is easy for Quad-Cityans to share in the concern over the probable performance of the "faceless bureaucracy."

It will be recalled that later studies showed last year's long gasoline purchase lines stemmed mainly from Energy Department policies and procedures, instead of from a true shortage of available fuel. Mix that kind of "inefficiency" with a real gasoline shortage and the result could be chaos.

Most petition signatures are valid

To the Editor:

The Coalition for Political Honesty challenges a group of lobbyists and 91 state legislators, the latter including Everett Steele and Celeste Stiel, who oppose reduction of the size of the Illinois legislature, to stop its effort to knock the Coalition's legislative cutback amendment off the November election ballot.

The lobbyists, who call themselves the Committee for Representative Government (CRG), are spending at least $50,000 to object to thousands of signatures on cutback petitions.

This is being done despite the results of random signature verification by the State Board of Elections which showed that petitions to cut the size of the Illinois House contained enough signatures to qualify for the ballot.

This is nothing more than a phony challenge by a bunch of so-called politicians who won't admit that Illinois citizens have gathered enough signatures to qualify the cutback amendment for the ballot.

On May 2, the Coalition filed petitions with the secretary of state containing 677,112 signatures in support of the amendment, a binding ball, dance, weight training, and swimming. Movable spectator seating will be provided for 5,000 persons in the main gymnasium, and there will be 100 fixed seats in the swimming pool area. Lighting and acoustical refinements will permit the staging of large-scale shows, concerts, dances and other special events.

Overall goals include a structure that is flexible in its usage, economical in construction, and that meets the needs of the present campus architecture.

The design is compact, with all facilities close to the various lockers, and it will allow for future expansion of handball courts and gymnastics if needed.

Aided by movable bleachers, folding curtains and a movable stage, it will be possible to schedule many of the functions to occur simultaneously.

The new multipurpose building will be a substantial and constant reminder to present students and citizens, and for future generations. It was a long time arriving, but it will be well worth the wait.

These politicians and their lobbyist friends should explain to Illinois taxpayers why they must pay thousands of dollars for such a shameful fishing expedition.

Their objection to thousands of signatures is a blatant infringement of citizens' rights to petition and to have their voices heard.

We urge that the new election law be reformed to include a requirement that objectors pay the cost of signature verification when their challenge to random sampling of signatures is unsuccessful.

Imprison the sexually dangerous

To the Editor:

Crimes against children are a very serious matter and require their offenders being harmed physically and mentally and result in a traumatic effect on the child that lasts for years and even life.

Most likely, the child will have suffered more from the criminal offense committed against him than the person convicted of the crime and sentenced to prison.

And how many persons convicted of child molesting will be returned to society without a criminal record against our young citizens?

Does the state's attorney's office go far enough in making recommendations when a person's behavior causes or threatens serious harm to children?

Does it not consider the fact that a person might be sexually dangerous?

Does the state's attorney's office consider someone to be a sexually dangerous person, they could file a petition with the court and the court could appoint two psychiatrists to examine this person, and then file a report with the court on their findings?

How many convicted child molesters will be released from prison and continue their crimes?

In some instances, they have progressed from sexual offenses to violent crimes to becoming more aggressive in the commission of their crimes, using force to assault, sexually, and even causing death.

The victims of these crimes and their parents must live with their experience for the rest of their lives, whereas the persons who are guilty of such acts often receive light sentences and are paroled early for good behavior.

Can molesters be in need of special psychological treatment and rehabilitation to help them from being repeat offenders?

They should not be released from prison or parole without a full psychological examination and a recommendation from a psychiatrist.

Attend builders' 1980 conference

Phillip and Cindy Davis, 3809 Lake St., attended the annual meeting of Davis County franchised builders near Chicago.

Earth-sheltered home builders from across the U.S. attended the conference, which introduced new products and services to the group, as well as providing additional training in building, marketing and administrative techniques.

Davis Caves, largest earth shelter organization in the country, was founded by Andy Davis of rural Armstrong, Ill., after he built a home with a basement of his own design in 1976. Since then, the organization has grown to over 100 builders of architect-designed homes.

All are constructed of steel-reinforced concrete and are covered with 3 to 5 feet of earth, seeking to save up to 90 percent in heat and cooling energy costs.

Alton Mayor Paul Lenx and Wilbur R. L. Trimpe, president of Lewis and Clark Community College, will have teams in the bowl-athon. All bowlers, who will be equally handicapped "for the blind," will bowl from wheelchairs.

Proceeds will be used to provide expanded services for the physically handicapped children and adult clients of the East Seal Society of Southwestern Illinois. The public is being invited to attend.

"EnergyGuide" Labels Can Save Energy, Money

Think "utility bills" when you're shopping for major home appliances, because escalating electric and gas rates can make the cost of operating these products as important a factor as their initial price.

To help you select the most energy-efficient models, bright yellow and black "EnergyGuide" labels are beginning to appear on refrigerator-freezers, freezers, dishwashers, clothes washers, water heaters, room air conditioners and home furnaces.

This is part of a joint Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and Department of Energy (DOE) labeling program. The labels enable an energy-wise buyer to save over $50 each year in utility bills—more than $500 over the estimated life of some appliances.

These are estimated figures prepared by DOE engineers and are based on comparing an efficient refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and clothes dryer to the least efficient ones available of the same size, using national average electric rates of 4.9¢ a kilowatt hour in a home with a gas water heater.

This rate is a national average, effective earlier this year, and is equal to that in Chicago. In New York City, where utility rates are 12¢ a kWh, savings would be more than double; in San Francisco, with a 2½¢ kWh rate, savings would be half.

The labels show, at a glance, the estimated annual energy-cost, or energy-efficiency of the appliance in comparison with competing products of the same type and size.

Three Labels

Although similar in appearance, there are three different types of "EnergyGuide" labels, all mandatory at retail level this spring.

Those on refrigerator-freezers, dishwashers, clothes washers and water heaters provide estimated average annual energy-cost figures, along with charts for figuring costs under your local utility rate.

Dishwasher and clothes washer labels give two cost estimates: one for residences equipped with gas water heaters, the other for homes with electric water heaters.

For room air conditioners, the black and yellow label furnishes energy-efficiency ratings.

On all labels except those for refrigerators, (which run continuously) charts show costs at different levels of usage.

The "EnergyGuide" label for furnaces is more generic. It suggests energy-saving measures you can take, and directs you to a manufacturer's fact sheet, available from the dealer, for more detailed guidance.

Balancing the cost of running a major appliance against its initial cost can help you select the product which will prove most economical in the long run. Here's how the labels can assist you.

A big, black number beneath the "EnergyGuide" arrow tells you the energy-cost or energy-efficiency rating of the appliance. Smaller numbers on either side of this figure tell you the highest and lowest energy-costs or energy-efficiency ratings for operating similar products. These figures are based on the national average utility rates.

Refrigerator-Freezer Capacity 17 Cubic Feet
 Model # 117-7-137
 Type of Defrost Full Automatic

ENERGYGUIDE
 Estimates on the scale are based on a national average electric rate of 4.9¢ per kilowatt hour. Only models with 16 1/2 to 18 1/2 cubic feet are compared in the scale.

Model with lowest energy cost $50
$51
 Model with highest energy cost $88

THIS MODEL
 Your cost will vary depending on your local energy rate and how you use the product.

How much will this model cost you to run yearly?

Yearly cost
Estimated yearly cost shown below
Cost per kilowatt hour	2¢ $21
	4¢ $11
	6¢ $12

"ENERGYGUIDE" LABELS soon to appear on major home appliances will enable the consumer to shop for the most energy-efficient models and save on utility bills.
